If you are eligible, apply to the Washington State Department of Licensing (Geologists: DOL). Start by reviewing the exam application procedures and the application due dates and exam dates. Complete the Geologist-in-Training Certificate Application. You can mail your application or apply online. Note that you must submit official transcripts from your institutions (BS and MS) with your application.

To apply online, please use Chrome and open the SAW site: <https://professions.dol.wa.gov>

Click on login or sign up, click on continue to Secure Access Washington, login or create a SAW account with your personal information. Once you have done that, click on Add a New Service, browse a list of services by agency, find Department of Licensing (DOL), click on Apply next to Professional and Business Licensing, then click on the access for Professional and Business Licensing, complete the MFA, you should then be at the DOL Licensing page. Click on apply, geologists, Geologist in Training, general application and proceed from there.

It costs $135 to apply to the WA State DOL, the $135 application fee covers one attempt at the FG, one attempt at the PG and the first issuance of a license.

Once the DOL approves your application, you will receive application materials for the ASBOG FG Exam (it will cost another fee $275 to ASBOG for the exam and fee for the computer-based testing site). Note, the application will come by email, so if you are out of town (e.g., field camp), make the proper arrangements because if you do not pay ASBOG you cannot take the exam. After payment has been received by ASBOG, you will receive an exam admission letter by email about one month before the exam date.

If you pass the ASBOG FG Exam the DOL will email you a Geologist in Training (GIT) license pdf. If you fail the FG Exam, you will be required to pay a reexam fee to the DOL of $88 and the exam fee to ASBOG.

Application Fee Reimbursement

If you are an enrolled student save all application receipts. Send Bob Mitchell an email if you apply as a student (rjmitch@wwu.edu). If you pass the ASBOG FG exam, the department will reimburse you 100% of the application fees and 50% if you fail—just submit your receipts and proof of passing.
